Reading the Meters ☆

Links

Archmage Berinand at the Transitus Shield has asked you to collect the readings from his instruments in Coldarra.

- Nexus Geological Reading
- Southern Coldarra Reading
- Northern Coldarra Reading
- Western Coldarra Reading

Relevant Locations

This quest starts and ends in Borean Tundra.

Description

I had hoped that the Nexus' impact was limited to this region. Recently though, reports have flooded in from all over Azeroth suggesting that geologic instability is growing exponentially!

I need the Nexus monitored regularly as I work to develop a solution.

I've placed sensitive instruments around Coldarra, disguised as Malygos' scrying orbs. One lies in the trench near the Nexus, and three are hidden in the structures around the valley's perimeter. Visit each and return to me with their readings.

The Southern, Northern and Western Orbs are easy to reach. Just go around in a big circle around the Nexus and they are small orbs are the entrance of the structures. For the Nexus one it is below the main entrance, on the same level at the instance portal just outside of the structure on the southeast.

While completing this quest, 2 more can be done at the same time:

More simple: by the meeting stone. Edit: This is for the nexus orb, forgot to mention that lol.

It seems that even the outland/ outlands mixup doesn't only happen in the real world...

If he's not stopped, Azeroth will be the next Outlands!

Sorry, nitpick :P

Where by 'bottom floor' you mean a level two steps up from the bottom; there are two levels below the location of this orb inside the Nexus itself.

To take the reading right-click on the orbs. The North, West and South orbs are found on the perimeter of Coldarra while the Nexus orb is about 5 steps north of the meeting stone for The Nexus still outside of the Nexus building.

I'm getting something glitchy going on, I was able to collect the three orbs around the perimeter of the valley, but the one by the Nexus meeting stone wasn't showing as clickable..I figured the quest might have glitched, so I abandoned and retook it. Now none of the orbs show as clickable, even after abandoning and retaking the quest. Anyone seen this?

I had forgotten one thing to be careful of when in here; call it the "pile-on effect." If you get into a fight with one mob, there will be another near enough to join in immediately, so you'll almost always be fighting two or more. Resist the impulse to run away; in any direction you run there will be at least another half-dozen hungry mobs waiting to move in for the kill. Druids can normally just sprint away but half of these guys are casters so you'll need to make sure you sprint behind a big rock; not one of those Azeroth-style rocks that are about as solid as a cloud...

If you do Nuts for Berries and the secrets of the ancients at the same time you can save time. You go around the Nexus for all these quest. They are inside by the entrance glowing. The last one is by the portal inside!

this quest seems to be bugged for me...
i can't open 'Nexus Geological Reading'

Edit : looks like you can't do this quest if you are in party. after i leaved my group, i was able to do this quest.

I noticed that he accidentally says Outlands instead of Outland when you turn in this quest...
