2 For those capable of flying to it, it's a safe spot (or at least was when I just did this quest). Just fly into the hut and grab the heart. No fighting necessary. And since no fighting was involved, you won't get flagged PvP when playing on PvE realms.

17 All of the quests where you have to summon Drakuru, can be done by summoning him at Zeb'Halak by killing Zimbo to get Zimbos mojo then summoning him THERE. You cannot complete it there, though, but you get the buff Envisioning Drakuru, which allows you to see him at the other altars for 5 minutes, so you can complete it at the right stage. So you can kill 1 non-elite "boss" with 100% drop, instead of farming the other mojos to summon him. Very handy! Specially at some of them where you have to kill quite a few.

1 This works perfectly! Just did it on my 76 death knight. It does make you see Drakuru at all altars

0 be warned, this quest flagged me PvP as the only way to get up top of there is by killing some of the other factions gaurds.

4 You can mount up and travel all the way up there, do the quest, and just walk away without actually having to fight anyone.

0 I swam in from the west until i was at an area of alliance. Then I walked up a water way (like a run-off made of wood). Then I waited until mobs were in battle w alliance soldiers. I never fought anyone, either. I jumped in to the lake when I was done
